ANOTHER BLOODY ELECTION

MG Will Flatt | 6 November 08

Once again we find ourselves looking back at another bloody election. Like the song by the British band Killing Joke, it's easy to be cynical. But when you are armed with the facts, being cynical takes on new dimension, because it is clear that the political class is in it for the destruction of America for the sake of the new world order.

This issue will examine what America will start to look like under Barack Obama.

Long before the fellow I like to call "Obamalamadingdong" beat McCain, I had his number. Look at the fact that he had a long relationship not just with "Bomb-throwing Bill" Ayers, but Saul Alinsky and Marshall Davis, people whose marxist affiliations were well-documented and whose influence on Obama has been profound.

Let's look at the woman he married, Michelle. She is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. CFR members generally don't marry patriots or nationalists; they marry others who share their globalist outlook. So Obama isn't just a commie, he's a one-worlder. In that respect, he's a lot like the Clintons and clarifies why he would pick Hitlery (er, I mean Hillary... not) as

The treasonous scumbags running the country today deliberately surround themselves with their ilk, to affirm in their own minds the rightness of their perfidy. This isn't guilt by association, it's association by the guilty!

People are waking up to the fact that the Constitution and our form of government has been subverted, overthrown & wrecked by Marxist-globalists and fascist-globalists working in tandem. For that reason, I expect fireworks.

The Democrats are in solid control of the federal government now, and they fully intend to impose a 500% increase on the federal ammo excise tax, and simultaneously outlaw even the mere POSSESSION of ALL firearms (HR 6257) that are semiautomatic or that can be made to function semi-automatically... which is in effect all firearms.

People are buying up arms & ammo like never before in the history of this country, and the federal government is bringing select combat troops home in preparation for redeployment on our streets under Martial Law. This is not a conspiracy theory; but a probability.

I wonder, could Obama turn out to be the last president this country will have before the Second American Revolution begins? If so, I pray that it comes swiftly, but not before enough Americans have been afforded the opportunity to get ready in whatever way they may be lacking.

I know some are ready now, but we need to afford others the chance to get the gear they need (even if it is homemade), the ammo they surely must have, and the health & fitness of anyone who can improve themselves.

In the meantime, let's be thankful that we have some time to prepare and use that time to make sure as many patriots are able to turn out when the next emergency occurs.

OBAMA = COMMUNIST

By MG Will Flatt

Now I know that for some of you this is no surprise, however inflammatory it may seem to the uninformed. Nonetheless, for the less-informed, let's examine what Barack Obama really believes in, based on interviews where he was speaking candidly.

Obama believes in "redistribution of wealth", which is a core tenet of Marxism. In the same interview, he laments that the civil rights movement didn't go further and push for the implementation of "economic justice" (redistribution of wealth) because it ran contrary to the principles of our nation's founders and wouldn't be accepted by the courts at that time. He identifies private property ownership (what has been termed "the ownership society") as an obstacle to "redistributive change" (Marxism).

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-fxz3UgwCR0>
Obama goes on to say that redistributing wealth is an http://election.newsmax.com/obama\_redistribution.html?s=al&promo\_code=6E50-1

'administrative task'. So now we know what he plans to do.

OBAMA'S COMMUNIST MENTOR

By Cliff Kincaid

<http://www.aim.org/aim-column/obamas-communist-mentor>

In his biography of Barack Obama, David Mendell writes about Obama's life as a "secret smoker" and how he "went to great lengths to conceal the habit." But what about Obama's secret political life? It turns out that Obama's childhood mentor, Frank Marshall Davis, was a communist.

In his books, Obama admits attending "socialist conferences" and coming into contact with Marxist literature. But he ridicules the charge of being a "hard-core academic Marxist," which was made by his colorful and outspoken 2004 U.S. Senate opponent, Republican Alan Keyes.

However, through Frank Marshall Davis, Obama had an admitted relationship with someone who was publicly identified as a member of the Communist Party USA (CPUSA). The record shows that Obama was in Hawaii from 1971-1979, where, at some point in time, he developed a close relationship, almost like a son, with Davis, listening to his "poetry" and getting advice on his career path. But Obama, in his book, Dreams From My Father, refers to him repeatedly as just "Frank."

The reason is apparent: Davis was a known communist who belonged to a party subservient to the Soviet Union. In fact, the 1951 report of the Commission on Subversive Activities to the Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii identified him as a CPUSA member. What's more, anti-communist congressional committees, including the House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC), accused Davis of involvement in several communist-front organizations.

Trevor Loudon, a New Zealand-based libertarian activist, <http://newzeal.blogspot.com> researcher and blogger, noted evidence that "Frank" was Frank Marshall Davis in a posting in March of 2007.

Obama's communist connection adds to mounting public concern about a candidate who has come out of virtually nowhere, with a brief U.S. Senate legislative record, to become the Democratic Party frontrunner for the U.S. presidency. In a Real Clear Politics poll average, Obama beats Republican John McCain by almost four percentage points.

AIM recently disclosed that Obama has well-documented socialist connections <http://www.aim.org/aim-column/obamas-international-socialist-connections>, which help explain why he sponsored a "Global Poverty Act" designed to send hundreds of billions of dollars of U.S. foreign aid to the rest of the world, in order to meet U.N. demands. The bill has passed the House and a Senate committee, and awaits full Senate action.

But the Communist Party connection through Davis is even more ominous. Decades ago, the CPUSA had tens of thousands of members, some of them covert agents who had penetrated the U.S. Government. It received secret subsidies from the old Soviet Union.

You won't find any of this discussed in the David Mendell book, Obama: From Promise to Power. It is typical of the superficial biographies of Obama now on the market. Secret smoking seems to be Obama's most controversial activity. At best, Mendell and the liberal media describe Obama as "left-leaning."

But you will find it briefly discussed, sort of, in Obama's own book, Dreams From My Father. He writes about "a poet named Frank," who visited them in Hawaii, read poetry, and was full of "hard-earned knowledge" and advice. Who was Frank? Obama only says that he had "some modest notoriety once," was "a contemporary of Richard Wright and Langston Hughes during his years in Chicago..." but was now "pushing eighty." He writes about "Frank and his old Black Power dashiki self" giving him advice before he left for Occidental College in 1979 at the age of 18.

This "Frank" is none other than Frank Marshall Davis, the black communist writer now considered by some to be in the same category of prominence as Maya Angelou and Alice Walker. In the summer/fall 2003 issue of African American Review, James A. Miller of George Washington University reviews a book by John Edgar Tidwell, a professor at the University of Kansas, about Davis's career, and notes, "In Davis's case, his political commitments led him to join the American Communist Party during the middle of World War II—even though he never publicly admitted his Party membership." Tidwell is an expert on the life and writings of Davis.

Is it possible that Obama did not know who Davis was when he wrote his book, Dreams From My Father, first published in 1995? That's not plausible since Obama refers to him as a contemporary of Richard Wright and Langston Hughes and says he saw a book of his black poetry.

The communists knew who "Frank" was, and they know who Obama is. In fact, one academic who travels in communist circles understands the significance of the Davis-Obama relationship.

headline, "Rethinking the History and Future of the Communist Party."

<http://www.politicalaffairs.net/article/articleview/5047/1/32/>

Horne, a history professor at the University of Houston, noted that Davis, who moved to Honolulu from Kansas in 1948 "at the suggestion of his good friend Paul Robeson," came into contact with Barack Obama and his family and became the young man's mentor, influencing Obama's sense of identity and career moves. Robeson, of course, was the well-known black actor and singer who served as a member of the CPUSA and apologist for the old Soviet Union. Davis had known Robeson from his time in Chicago.

As Horne describes it, Davis "befriended" a "Euro-American family" that had "migrated to Honolulu from Kansas and a young woman from this family eventually had a child with a young student from Kenya East Africa who goes by the name of Barack Obama, who retracing the steps of Davis eventually decamped to Chicago."

It was in Chicago that Obama became a "community organizer" and came into contact with more far-left political forces, including the Democratic Socialists of America, which maintains close ties to European socialist groups and parties through the Socialist International (SI), and two former members of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), William Ayers and Carl Davidson.

The SDS laid siege to college campuses across America in the 1960s, mostly in order to protest the Vietnam War, and spawned the terrorist Weather Underground organization. Ayers was a member of the terrorist group and turned himself in to authorities in 1981. He is now a college professor and served with Obama on the board of the Woods Fund of Chicago. Davidson is now a figure in the Committees of Correspondence for Democracy and Socialism, an offshoot of the old Moscow-controlled CPUSA, and helped organize the 2002 rally where Obama came out against the Iraq War.

Both communism and socialism trace their roots to Karl Marx, co-author of the Communist Manifesto, who endorsed the first meeting of the Socialist International, then called the "First International." According to Pierre Mauroy, president of the SI from 1992-1996, "It was he [Marx] who formally launched it, gave the inaugural address and devised its structure..."

Apparently unaware that Davis had been publicly named as a CPUSA member, Horne said only that Davis "was certainly in the orbit of the CP [Communist Party]-if not a member..."

GERALD CELENTE: PREDICTS REVOLUTION IN FOX NEWS INTERVIEW

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=46MEqEgLTg>

The Trends Research Institute CEO warned Americans the other day about the unpleasant future that is unavoidably coming this way, in an interview on Fox Business Channel.

The highly reliable, credible prognosticator points out that Barack Obama will not be able to prevent the slow-motion collapse of the US economy, that Americans are completely unprepared for the fundamental changes that will occur due to a widespread denial of reality, and that a depression far worse than "The Great Depression" will occur;

Celente points out that that the hard choices needed to prevent the utter collapse of America include scaling back government at all levels; instead government will pile on with massive tax increases (25%??) at all levels – Federal, state & local.

He says the USA will become the first developed nation in the world to become un-developed; that by Christmas 2012 Americans will be a LOT less concerned about giving durable-goods gifts and much more concerned about the sort of hunger normally seen in third-world countries; Americans will give food as Christmas gifts by 2012.

Commercialized holidays will become (thankfully) a thing of the past, unfortunately because many Americans will be incapable of discretionary spending. The retail industry (and shopping malls) will go the way of the dodo bird, but local markets will survive. Affluence will cease as a profound reversal of fortune takes place. Americans will at a minimum be forced into adopting a frugal lifestyle, if not a Spartan existence.

He is predicting a Second American Revolution, food riots,

In addition to Tidwell's book, Black Moods: Collected Poems of Frank Marshall Davis, confirming Davis's Communist Party membership, another book, The New Red Negro: The Literary Left and African American Poetry, 1930-1946, names Davis as one of several black poets who continued to publish in CPUSA-supported publications after the 1939 Hitler-Stalin non-aggression pact. The author, James Edward Smethurst, associate professor of Afro-American studies at the University of Massachusetts-Amherst, says that Davis, however, would later claim that he was "deeply troubled" by the pact.

Trevor Loudon, the New Zealand-based blogger who has been analyzing the political forces behind Obama and specializes in studying the impact of Marxist and leftist political organizations, notes that Frank Chapman, a CPUSA supporter, has written a letter to the party newspaper hailing the Illinois senator's victory in the Iowa caucuses.

"Obama's victory was more than a progressive move; it was a dialectical leap ushering in a qualitatively new era of struggle," Chapman wrote. "Marx once compared revolutionary struggle with the work of the mole, who sometimes burrows so far beneath the ground that he leaves no trace of his movement on the surface. This is the old revolutionary 'mole,' not only showing his traces on the surface but also breaking through."

increasing numbers of squatters (i.e.; internal refugees), a tax rebellion and job marches.

Gerald Celente is not reporting anything new, he is simply reiterating what patriots and the militias have been saying since the 1990's. The difference is that Celente is the darling of the mainstream (lamestream) media and is permitted to offer his predictions now that time is critically short. When the crisis explodes onto the headlines, the insiders will sniff at complaining Americans with utter contempt, having "warned us all" about what has come.

In separate interviews, Celente warns that Obama will not offer real change, but will instead follow Bush's habit of monetizing the U.S. debt by printing more FED funny money to pay for the ongoing bailouts for banks, insurance firms, manufacturers, and other industries. This will lead to a hyperinflationary depression.

GUN-GRABBER OBAMA

Some facts presented as a warning:

- Obama voted to allow lawsuits designed to bankrupt the firearms industry.<sup>1</sup>
- Obama has endorsed a complete ban on handgun ownership.<sup>2</sup>
- Obama voted to ban almost all rifle ammunition commonly used for hunting and sport shooting.<sup>3</sup>
- Obama supports local gun bans in Chicago, Washington, D.C., and other cities.<sup>4</sup>
- Obama voted to uphold local gun bans and the criminal prosecution of people who use firearms in self-defense.<sup>5</sup>
- Obama supports gun-owner identification and gun registration.<sup>6</sup>
- Obama opposes Right to Carry laws.<sup>7</sup>

INDIANA MILITIA CORPS

- Obama was a member of the Board of Directors of the Joyce Foundation, the leading source of funds for anti-gun organizations and "research."<sup>8</sup>
- Obama supported a proposal to ban gun stores within 5 miles of a school or park, which would eliminate almost every gun store in America.<sup>9</sup>
- Obama has endorsed a 500% increase in the federal excise tax on firearms and ammunition.<sup>9</sup>
- Obama supports a ban on inexpensive handguns.<sup>9</sup>
- Obama supports a ban on the resale of police issued firearms, even if the money is going to police departments for replacement equipment.<sup>9</sup>
- Obama supports mandatory firearm training requirements for all gun owners and a ban on gun ownership for persons under the age of 21.<sup>9</sup>
- Obama voted against letting gun owners being notified when the state of Illinois did records searches on them.<sup>10</sup>
- Obama voted against a measure to lower the Firearms Owners Identification card age minimum from 21 to 18, a measure designed to assist young people in the military.<sup>11</sup>
- Obama favors a ban on standard capacity magazines.<sup>12</sup>
- Obama supports mandatory micro-stamping of ammunition, which analysts say would shut down the firearms industry because no such technology exists.<sup>13</sup>
- Obama supports repeal of the Tiahrt Amendment, which prohibits information on gun traces collected by the BATFE from being used in reckless lawsuits against firearm dealers and manufacturers.<sup>14</sup>
- Barack Obama wants to re-impose the failed and discredited Clinton Gun Ban.<sup>15</sup>
- Obama supports one-gun-a-month handgun purchase restrictions.<sup>16</sup>

- Obama opposes four of the five Supreme Court justices who affirmed an individual right to keep and bear arms. He voted against the confirmation of Alito and Roberts and he has stated he would not have appointed Thomas or Scalia.<sup>17</sup>
- Barack Obama voted for an Illinois State Senate bill to ban and confiscate "assault weapons," but the bill was so poorly crafted, it would have also banned most semi-auto and single and double barrel shotguns commonly used by sportsmen.<sup>18</sup>

DEMOCRATIC LEADERS IN THE U.S. HOUSE DISCUSS CONFISCATING 401(K)s, IRAS

By Karen McMahan | Nov. 4, 2008

http://www.carolinajournal.com/cjcolumnists/display\_author.html?id=264

RALEIGH — Under the pretext of combating the financial crisis, Democrats in the U.S. House have been conducting hearings on proposals to confiscate workers' personal retirement accounts ...including 401(k)s & IRAs... and convert them to accounts managed by the Social Security Administration.

Triggered by the financial crisis the past two months, the hearings reportedly were meant to stem losses incurred by many workers and retirees whose 401(k) and IRA balances have been shrinking rapidly.

The testimony of Teresa Ghilarducci, professor of economic policy analysis at the New School for Social Research in New York, in hearings Oct. 7 drew the most attention and criticism. Testifying for the House Committee on Education and Labor, Ghilarducci proposed that the government eliminate tax breaks for 401(k) and similar retirement accounts, such as IRAs, and confiscate workers' retirement plan accounts and convert them to universal Guaranteed Retirement Accounts (GRAs) managed by the Social Security Administration.

Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor, in prepared remarks for the hearing on "The Impact of the Financial Crisis on Workers' Retirement Security," blamed Wall Street for the financial crisis and said his committee will "strengthen and protect Americans' 401(k)s, pensions, and other retirement plans" and the "Democratic Congress will continue to conduct this much-needed oversight on behalf of the American people."

Currently, 401(k) plans allow Americans to invest pretax money and their employers match up to a defined percentage, which not only increases workers' retirement savings but also reduces their annual income tax. The balances are fully inheritable, subject to income tax, meaning workers pass on their wealth to their heirs, unlike Social Security. Even when they leave an employer and go to one that doesn't offer a 401(k) or pension, workers can transfer their balances to a qualified IRA.

The majority of witness testimony during recent hearings before the House Committee on Education and Labor showed that congressional Democrats intend to address income and wealth inequality through redistribution.

On July 31, 2008, Robert Greenstein, executive director of the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, testified before the subcommittee on workforce protections that "from the standpoint of equal treatment of people with different incomes, there is a fundamental flaw" in tax code incentives because they are "provided in the form of deductions, exemptions, and exclusions rather than in the form of refundable tax credits."

Even people who don't pay taxes should get money from the government, paid for by higher-income Americans, he said. "There is no obvious reason why lower-income taxpayers or people who do not file income taxes should get smaller incentives (or no tax incentives at all),” Greenstein said.

“Moving to refundable tax credits for promoting socially worthwhile activities would be an important step toward enhancing progressivity in the tax code in a way that would improve economic efficiency and performance at the same time,” Greenstein said, and “reducing barriers to labor organizing, preserving the real value of the minimum wage, and the other workforce security concerns ...would contribute to an economy with less glaring and sharply widening inequality.”

When asked whether committee members seriously were considering Ghilarducci’s proposal for GSAs, Aaron Albright, press secretary for the Committee on Education and Labor, said Miller and other members were listening to all ideas.

Miller’s biggest priority has been on legislation aimed at greater transparency in 401(k)s and other retirement plan administration, specifically regarding fees, Albright said, and he sent a link to a Fox News interview of Miller on Oct. 24, 2008, to show that the congressman had not made a decision.

After repeated questions asked by Neil Cavuto of Fox News, Miller said he would not be in favor of “killing the 401(k)” or of “killing the tax advantages for 401(k)s.”

Arguing against liberal prescriptions, William Beach, director of the Center for Data Analysis at the Heritage Foundation, testified on Oct. 24 that the “roots of the current crisis are firmly planted in public policy mistakes” by the Federal Reserve and Congress. He cautioned Congress against raising taxes, increasing burdensome regulations, or withdrawing from international product or capital markets. “Congress can ill afford to repeat the awesome errors of its predecessor in the early days of the Great Depression,” Beach said.

Instead, Beach said, Congress could best address the financial crisis by making the tax reductions of 2001 and 2003 permanent, stopping dependence on demand-side stimulus, lowering the corporate profits tax, and reducing or eliminating taxes on capital gains and dividends.

Testifying before the same committee in early October, Jerry Bramlett, president and CEO of BenefitStreet, Inc., an independent 401(k) plan administrator, said one of the best ways to ensure retirement security would be to have the U.S. Department of Labor develop educational materials for workers so they could make better investment decisions, not exchange equity investments in retirement accounts for Treasury bills, as proposed in the GSAs.

Congressional Democrats may now have stronger support for their “spreading the wealth” agenda. On Oct. 27, the American Thinker posted a video of an interview with Obama on public radio station WBEZ-FM from 2001.

In the interview, Obama said, “The Supreme Court never ventured into the issues of redistribution of wealth, and of more basic issues such as political and economic justice in society.” “The Constitution says only what the Federal government can’t do to you,” and Obama added that “the Warren Court wasn’t that radical”.

Although in 2001 Obama said he was not “optimistic about bringing major redistributive change through the courts,” as president, he would likely have the opportunity to appoint one or more Supreme Court justices.

INDIANA MILITIA CORPS

“The real tragedy of the civil rights movement was, um, because the civil rights movement became so court focused that I think there was a tendency to lose track of the political and community organizing and activities on the ground that are able to put together the actual coalition of powers through which you bring about redistributive change,”
Obama said.

OBAMA CIVIL DEFENSE PROGRAM RESEMBLES DOMESTIC DRAFT

Paul Joseph Watson | 11-12-08
<http://www.PrisonPlanet.com>
<http://www.infowars.com/?p=5917>

A newly rediscovered 2006 audio clip has shed more light on Rahm Emanuel and Barack Obama’s plan for compulsory community service and a “national civilian security force”. In an interview with Ben Smith of the New York Daily News, Emanuel outlined the agenda for military-style training, essentially a domestic draft, aimed at preparing Americans for a chemical or biological terrorist attack.

Asked by Smith about the universal service plan and whether people would have to live in military barracks, Emanuel laughed before responding, “We’re going to have universal civil defense training, somewhere between the ages of 18 to 25 you will do three months of training....but there can be nothing wrong with all Americans having a joint similar experience of what we call civil defense training or civil service in service of the country, in preparation, which will give people a sense of what it means to be an American.”

In response to the point that the program was significantly expanded in comparison to what the U.S. government already has in place, Emanuel responded, “Guess what - we have a lot more challenges so we are going to need a lot to do it.”

What challenge is Emanuel referring to?

<http://www.prisonplanet.com/what-will-obamas-international-crisis-be.html> The same crisis foretold by Joe Biden, Colin Powell and others that we are “guaranteed” will unfold shortly after Obama takes office?

“It will be a common experience and we will be prepared, God forbid, God forbid that there is a chemical hit, another terrorist act or natural disaster becoming more frequent - there’ll be a body of citizens who are ready and capable and trained - that’s all you have to think about,” said Emanuel before smugly declaring, “We’re all here for you OK? It’s a circle of love.”

Asked if the training would be military style, with people wearing uniforms, Emanuel stated, “If you’re worried about are you going to have to do 50 jumping jacks the answer is yes,” adding that the service could be done through the National Guard.

What on earth does Emanuel mean when he says Americans are going to be forced to perform military-style physical exercises and what does this have to do with civil defense or preparing for a terrorist attack? It sounds more like the state-mandated physical workouts described in Orwell’s 1984.

The video then features a clip from C-Span from August 2006 in which Emanuel is asked whether the program will be compulsory, to which he responds, “In a sense it’s required of everybody, 18 to 25, three months, and at some point at that point you do it.”

The use of the word “required” is noteworthy, because this exact terminology was removed from Obama’s change.gov website when <http://www.prisonplanet.com/obama-website-scrubs-mandatory-community-service-call.html> controversy over the program arose last week.

The militarized nature of the program and its supposed intention sounds more like a draft-lite than the “community service” angle now being pitched on Obama’s website. It also bears similarities to the nationwide FEMA-run program <http://www.prisonplanet.com/articles/august-2007/160807-quell-dissent.htm> training pastors and preachers to act as “pacifiers” in the event of martial law being declared after a terror attack or a natural disaster.

Will the liberal left pay as much attention to Emanuel’s stated agenda to implement a proxy domestic draft as they did to rumors of Bush bringing back conscription, or will the true scope of Obama’s “national civilian security force” continue to fly under the radar?

COMMAND NOTE: While it would be amusing to think that Obama and Emanuel are talking about “reinventing the militia”, they are really – if you pay attention to what they are saying – suggesting that we need a compulsory national service program. This is the sort of stuff that Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin cooked up!

Even more disturbing (see the above link at time index 2:49), Rahm Emanuel slips in a veiled threat that if you don’t agree to “go to the barracks”, you will “take a train ride”, which refers to being transported to a detention camp.

Actual placard from an anti-NWO rally

INDIANA MILITIA CORPS

This is NOT conspiracy theory-mongering; Obama and Emanuel hail from the Chicago area. Chicago has an extensive commuter-rail network that connects to other rail lines in Illinois which lead to sites that have been pre-designated as detention camps under “continuity of government” plans. So the choice is clear; go to the barracks for your mandatory national service, or get ready for a train ride to your regional concentration camp and crematoria. Given the martial law preparations that are being made right now, and the planned abolition of the Constitution, this isn’t as farfetched as some would have you believe.

HOMELAND SECURITY SPYING ON AMERICANS FROM THE AIR

By Michael Webster | 11-11-08
<http://la.indymedia.org/news/2008/11/222046.php>
<http://www.americanchronicle.com/articles/81037>

Using Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (UAVs) and Space-Based Domestic Spying Surveillance technology, the U.S. Government is now watching American citizens under the guise of disaster management and controlling the U.S. Mexican border. The Reaper/Predator B UAVs robotic killing machines are currently in operation with the USAF, US Navy and the Royal Air Force. In addition, non military users of the Predator B include NASA and Homeland security through the US Customs and Border Protection agencies.

The (DHS) Department of Homeland Security’s space-based domestic spy program run by that agency's National Applications Office (NAO) is now in full operation.

During Hurricane Ike, U.S. Customs and Border Protection for the first time flew the Predator B unmanned aerial vehicle in "support of the Federal Emergency Management Agency's relief efforts," the insider tech publication reported.

Tom Burghardt in a recent article wrote that the Predator B carries out "targeted assassinations" of "terrorist suspects" across Afghanistan, Iraq and Pakistan. The deployment of the robotic killing machines in the United States for "disaster management" is troubling to say the least and a harbinger of things to come.

Despite objections by Congress and civil liberties groups, DHS - in close collaboration with the ultra-spooky National Reconnaissance Office (NRO), the agency that develops and maintains America's fleet of military spy satellites, and the National Geospatial-Intelligence Agency (NGA) that analyzes military imagery and generates mapping tools - are proceeding with the first phase of the controversial domestic aerial-spying program.

NAO will coordinate how domestic law enforcement and "disaster relief" agencies such as FEMA will use satellite imagery intelligence (IMINT) generated by military spy satellites. Burghardt wrote earlier this year, unlike commercial satellites, their military cousins are far more flexible, have greater resolution and therefore possess more power to monitor human activity.

Barry Steinhardt, Director of the ACLU's Technology and Liberty Project, called for a moratorium on the domestic use of military spy satellites until key questions were answered. Steinhardt said, "The domestic use of spy satellites and UAVs represents a big brother monster and we need to put some restraints in place before it grows into something that will trample Americans' privacy rights.

INDIANA MILITIA CORPS

This program now is providing federal, state and local officials 'with extensive access' to spy-satellite imagery." Steinhardt said.

As we have seen however, the use of satellite imagery during 'national security events' such as last summer's political conventions in Denver and St. Paul may have aided FBI and local law enforcement in their preemptive raids on protest organizers and subsequent squelching of dissent. One wonders if this is what DGI refers to when they write that the company "performs work in the national interest, advancing public safety and national security through innovative research, analysis and applied technology".

There are real questions being asked; Do these spy-in-the-sky surveillance systems comply with privacy laws and doesn't violate the Posse Comitatus Act?

The 1878 law prohibits the military from playing a role in domestic law enforcement. Since the 1990s however, the Posse Comitatus Act has been eroded significantly by both Democratic and Republican administrations, primarily in the areas of "drug interdiction," "border security" as well as "Continuity of Government" planning by U.S. Northern Command (NORTHCOM).

Within the Department of Homeland Security (DHS), Customs and Border Protection (CBP) is the lead agency charged with securing our nation's borders.

United States Border Patrol (USBP) is charged with detecting and preventing the entry of terrorists, weapons of mass destruction, and unauthorized aliens into the country, and interdicting drug smugglers and other criminals. The USBP already utilizes advanced technology to augment its agents' ability to patrol the border. The technologies used include, but are not limited to, sensors, light towers, mobile night vision scopes, remote video surveillance systems, directional listening devices, various database systems, and unmanned aerial vehicles (UAVs). These so called "force multipliers" allow the USBP to deploy fewer agents in a specific area while maintaining the ability to detect and counter intrusions and are increasingly becoming a part of the USBP's day-today operations. There are two different types of UAVs: drones and remotely piloted vehicles (RPVs). Both drones and RPVs are pilotless, but drones are programmed for autonomous flight. RPVs are actively flown remotely — by a ground control operator. UAV's are defined as a powered aerial vehicle that does not carry a human operator, uses aerodynamic forces to provide lift, can fly autonomously or be piloted remotely, can be expendable or recoverable, and can carry lethal or nonlethal payloads. UAVs have played key roles in recent conflicts. Historically, UAVs have been used in various military settings outside of U.S. borders. UAVs have provided reconnaissance, surveillance, target acquisition, search and rescue, and battle damage assessments. In the recent wars in Afghanistan and Iraq, UAVs have been used for surveillance purposes and to attack enemies. The Predator UAV, for example, was armed with anti-tank weapons to attack Taliban and Al Qaeda members. UAVs have also been used in domestic settings.

The NASA-sponsored Environmental Research Aircraft and Sensor Technology (ERAST) program has produced civilian UAVs to monitor pollution and measure ozone levels. The Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) is involved in developing Global Positioning Systems (GPS) and video camera guidance for using UAVs to locate and identify toxic substances. Lastly, the Department of Energy recently announced that it will test UAVs.

They can also be outfitted with radiation sensors to detect potential nuclear booms, suite case nuke, dirty booms and reactor accidents. Thousands of National Guard troops are deployed along with U.S. Border Patrol to protect the US border and are flying unmanned aircraft system (UAS), out of bases in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

As reported earlier this year in the Laguna Journal that a special U.S. Military Task Force has been created to protect our southern border with Mexico. Members of this task force are preparing to secure the border by responding with specially trained fast response U.S. Army task force military units. These forces are already in place with the heart of the power being concentrated in El Paso and Southern

New Mexico with a far reaching responsibility from East Texas to Southern California.

USAF General Victor E. Renuart Jr.

They are being staged and immediately available as emergency "on call" units for use against terrorist threats on the nation's border and local disasters, said Gen. Victor E. Renuart Jr., commander of United States Northern Command and the North American Aerospace Defense Commander.

The Ft. Bliss 1st Armored Division soldiers, as well as a new missile defense unit that are being created at Fort Bliss. America's first air defense and believed by Jane's Intel Web Report to be the owners of the sky where ever they fly. These F-22 Raptors that are stationed at Holloman Air Force Base will be available to defend homeland security, Renuart said.

Renuart, who visited Joint Task Force-North, which is under his command, declined to discuss any details of threats uncovered along the border with Mexico, but he said many agencies, including JTF-North, have made "it a very difficult border for someone to take advantage of." That would explain why there have been recent reports of U.S. military being seen on the border.

As previously reported in the Journal the federal government acknowledged that the United States-Mexican border region has been experiencing an alarming rise in the level of criminal cartel activity, including drug and human smuggling, which has placed significant additional burdens on Federal, State, and local law enforcement agencies.

Dozens of U.S. citizens have been kidnapped, held hostage and killed by their captors in Mexico and many cases remain unsolved. Moreover, new cases of disappearances and kidnap-for-ransom continue to be reported. Google: Americans Being Kidnapped, Held and killed in Mexico

"It is prudent for us to assume that any of these established trafficking routes, whether it's human trafficking or drugs or arms or money, any of those could be used, and so we want to keep our eyes and ears on all of those to ensure that they are not used in that regard," Renuart said. ### YES, I REALLY WROTE A LETTER TO OBAMA.

By MG Will Flatt | 22 Nov. 08

Before you think I lost my marbles or before you think I'm making this up, let me say that sometimes you have to say something for the record. And when you say something for the record, you have to direct your comments to someone, and sometimes you get the bonus of 'putting them on notice'. I wrote to Obama (without expecting a reply from a real, caring, sensible human being) through his official government transition website: <http://www.change.gov/page/s/contact>

The inspiration for writing him was to let him know that all Americans, both liberal and conservative; whether Republican or Democrat, don't cotton much to having 'Hitlery' Clinton, the Queen B-tch of the Universe, as America's Secretary of State. If the people of the world come to hate her as the people of Arkansas have, and later, as the rest of America have come to hate her, then I suspect all the nuclear nations will launch a massive strike and obliterate us for the sake of their own common good. While I didn't start typing with the intention of making this into an editorial, these sorts of things can take on a life of their own. Here's the letter:

Mr. Obama, I know that you want to reach out into the ranks of Democrats to fill the major positions in your Cabinet. But I would ask that you STOP and THINK about Hillary Clinton. To appoint her as the Secretary of the State Dept. would undermine everything that you stand for (CHANGE) with regards to foreign relations. Many people voted for you, possibly all of them, at every stage of the election because of the foreign relations alternative that you represented yourself as offering in contrast to Hillary Clinton, and (later) John McCain. Either you &

Both the F-22 and the Terminal High Altitude Area Defense, or THAAD, missile -- designed to destroy short-and-intermediate-range ballistic missiles as they re-enter Earth's atmosphere -- are recent additions to the nation's arsenal. A THAAD unit is being created at Fort Bliss.

"Our job at NORTHCOM is to ensure that if there's a seam or a gap there that we're thinking of how we could fill that with some other capability out of" the Defense Department, he said. "What that has forced us to do is think about, 'How do you solve that time/distance problem, even on a short-notice event. And so I have access to capabilities now that I didn't have a year or two ago that I can move very quickly to fill that need.

The MQ-9 Reaper will employ robust sensors to automatically find, fix, track and target critical emerging time sensitive targets. In the MQ-9 the SAR was replaced with the AN/APY-8 Lynx II radar, replacing the TESAR with more advanced high resolution radar-imaging system. The ground control segment of the Predator B is common with all previous Predator systems. The US government is developing the ability to operate multiple aircraft from a single ground station, in effect, multiplying the overall combat effectiveness over the battlefield.

your campaign just misrepresented yourself, or you fail to understand why so many Americans are viscerally opposed to Hillary and what she stands for.

Hillary supported every step of the Iraq war, while at the same time downplaying her position to her base. She has done a better job of convincing her base of her sincerity because she appears more so than John "flip-flop" Kerry. Nonetheless, she is a WAR HAWK, and a Chicken Hawk at that; she loves using the military to establish a new global order but personally detests the sort of people who serve in our military. Most of all, she and Bill Clinton represent the antithesis of the antiwar movement in this country and the Democrat Party's worst betrayal of meaningful change.

Or, consider what Justin Raimondo wrote at antiwar.com:

"It was, after all, a Democratic president, Bill Clinton, who pushed the Iraq Liberation Act through Congress, funded Chalabi, and started the process that ended in what the late General William E. Odom trenchantly described as the worst strategic disaster in American military history. Now the same pattern is taking hold in regard to Iran. The pressure on President Obama to humble Iran, and prove his "toughness," is going to be enormous, and one indication is that the War Party's propaganda blitz, which should be reaching a crescendo by Inauguration Day, has already started in earnest."

"With Hillary Clinton as Obama's secretary of state, and a bevy of war hawks ensconced in key national security posts – just like the neocons in the Bush administration – the War Party will be well-represented in the foreign policy councils of the new administration. It looks like we're in for a long, agonizingly drawn out drama, which may very well end the same way the last one did."

INDIANA MILITIA CORPS

Mr. Obama, I would ask that you not fall for the role that is being prepared for you by the people who are closest to you: V-P elect Biden said you were going to be tested within the first six months of your Presidency. We the People (your employers) know that this "test" will be a MANUFACTURED crisis with Iran, to close what CFR member (and neocon war hawk) Thomas P.M. Barnett termed "the non-integrating gap"; which is virtually everything from the Mediterranean to India. America can't afford that agenda, and it sure wouldn't be the sort of change America yearns for. You were right during your campaign: "Change, change; the question is what sort [kind] of change?"

Your wife, like Hillary, is a CFR member and may be able to effectively advise you where the Council on Foreign Relations stands - and Hillary by extension - on many of the policy positions she will take if she becomes the next Secretary of State. While you may claim neutrality regarding knowledge of the CFR and what it stands for, you certainly cannot claim ignorance. Consider what Mr. Raimondo said regarding the Clintons and the Iraq Liberation Act, and view our handling of Iran through that lens to see what the outcome will be with Hillary as Sec/State.

You are now about to assume control of the driver's seat of our nation. You have the sole power to decide WHAT SORT OF CHANGE America will get and what direction we go in. Will it be the path that Mr. Biden and other CFR members have in mind, toward a more globalized society; following their template of conflict, response and synthesis? Or will you give America what WE want: an end to foreign entanglements and endless war, sane fiscal policy at home, and federal government adherence to the Constitution (to which you will soon take a binding Oath). Your choice regarding Hillary Clinton will signal to "We Who Are Paying Attention" the measure of your sincerity and indicate what course you intend to follow during the term of your administration.

Or do you wish to disillusion the American people, who are already deeply disillusioned about our political establishment, by appointing the one person in politics today who can cast the business-as-usual pall of a previous administration on the one that campaigned so hard on the theme of change?

The choice is yours alone to make in the end, but be cautioned, your employer is watching. Good luck with the new job, you're really gonna need it.

Editorial note: while everyone in the militia should be encouraged to FREQUENTLY contact all of our elected officials and make our wishes and opinions known to them, we caution anyone who does so to be professional and choose your words CAREFULLY. This should be done not only for the sake of getting your point across clearly, but for the sake of avoiding becoming a victim of the emerging police state. Never use threatening language or worse yet issue actual threats. Such behavior, needless to say, is extremely counterproductive.

For example, when I was working for the Indiana University police department, a student studying to become a police officer (failed to use basic common sense and) threatened then-President Bill Clinton. In an email that was originally intended to convey his anger over the Clinton gun-control agenda, the massacre at Waco, and other hot-button issues, this lost soul became carried away with what was supposed to merely be a strongly worded missive. Rather than taking the time to THINK about what was written, he hit the "send" button on the email. For that matter, I don't think he even attempted to proofread his letter; I was on duty when the Secret Service showed up on campus & checked in with the Chief to let us know why they were there. Maybe if he had been in the good habit of rereading his words before clicking the mouse, and if he had been a little brighter, he could have saved himself a few years in federal prison and a permanent national security threat designation, not to mention the incurable STD's he probably got from Bubba while in the joint.

So, feel free to make your opinions known, just do it smartly and respectfully. Remember that you are the militia; whether you mention the militia or not, we are all represented by you and everything you do. Each of us represents the sharp edge of the patriot movement, so let's be sharp in our thinking.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S THANKSGIVING DAY PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS it is the duty of all nations to acknowledge the providence of Almighty God, to obey His will, to be grateful for His benefits, and humbly to implore His protection and favour; and Whereas both Houses of Congress have, by their joint committee, requested me "to recommend to the people of the United States a DAY OF PUBLIC THANKSGIVING and PRAYER, to be observed by acknowledging with grateful hearts the many and signal favors of Almighty God, especially by affording them an opportunity peaceably to establish a form of government for their safety and happiness:"

NOW THEREFORE, I do recommend & assign THURSDAY, the TWENTY-SIXTH DAY of NOVEMBER next, to be devoted by the people of these States to the service of that great and glorious Being who is the beneficent author of all the good that was, that is, or that will be; that we may then all unite in rendering unto Him our sincere and humble thanks for His kind care and protection of the people of this country previous to their becoming a nation; for the signal and manifold mercies and the favorable interpositions of His providence in the course and conclusion of the late war; for the great degree of tranquility, union, and plenty which we have since enjoyed; -- for the peaceable and rational manner in which we have been enable to establish Constitutions of government for our safety and happiness, and particularly the national one now lately instituted;-- for the civil and religious liberty with which we are blessed, and the means we have of acquiring and diffusing useful knowledge;-- and, in general, for all the great and various favours which He has been pleased to confer upon us.

And also, that we may then unite in most humbly offering our prayers and supplications to the great Lord and Ruler of Nations and beseech Him to pardon our national and other transgressions;-- to enable us all, whether in publick or private stations, to perform our several and relative duties properly and punctually; to render our National Government a blessing to all the people by constantly being a Government of wise, just, and constitutional laws, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed; to protect and guide all sovereigns and nations (especially such as have shewn kindness unto us); and to bless them with good governments, peace, and concord; to promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue, and the increase of science among them and us; and, generally to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as he alone knows to be best.

GIVEN under my hand, at the city of New-York, the third day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-nine.

Psalm 100

Make a joyful noise to the Lord, all the lands!
Serve the Lord with gladness! Come into God's presence with singing!
Know that the Lord is God! It is he that made us, and we are his; we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.
Enter his gates with thanksgiving, and his courts with praise!
Give thanks to him, bless his name!
For the Lord is good;
his steadfast love endures for ever, and his faithfulness to all generations.
